Dr. Martin Arrives At Wesleyan

The new Wesleyan president, right, is escorted into Wesleyan College by Leo Huckabee, chairman of the college Board of Trustees.

The Board of Trustees Holds Its Fall Meeting

On October 16, 1952, an all-important announcement came from Mr. Leo B. Huckabee of Macon, chairman of the Board of Trustees, who presided at this history-making session. Dr. B. Joseph Martin of Greensboro, N. C., was elected president of Wesleyan College beginning January 1, 1953.

He succeeds Dr. William F. Quillian of Atlanta and Macon, who has served as acting president since the death last fall of Dr. Silas Johnson.

Dr. Martin, 46, a native of Bourg, La., attended the University of Cincinnati for three years and received Bachelor of Theology degrees from Pasadena, California College in 1935 and 1936. He holds higher degrees from the University of Southern California.

After serving as pastor of the Methodist Church of Reseda, California in 1936 and at Taft, California, from 1940 to 1942, he was named vice-president of Asbury Theological Seminary at Wilmore, Ky., in 1945 and later became assistant to the president of Oklahoma City University.

Dr. Martin was named executive director of the Methodist College Foundation of North Carolina in 1949, which he is serving at present.

Other items of business included the election of McKibben Lane of Macon to serve the unexpired term of the late Dr. Johnson, and Rev. Melvin E. Peavy, Cordele, district superintendent of the Americus district, to serve the unexpired term of the late Dr. T. D. Ellis.

D. Abbott Turner of Columbus was chairman of the special nominating committee for naming the new president.

The Alumnae Director, Eunice Thomson, has a year's leave of absence this year to do graduate study in English at Emory University. During her absence the work of the Alumnae Association will be well taken care of with Malene (Lee) Morgan, A.B. '32, as Acting Alumnae Director, and Ida Young, A.B. '33, as her Associate, and Mrs. Luther Harman, who has been with us for several years, as Assistant.

A fine new slate of officers under Freda (Kaplan) Nadler, A.B. '26, as president, will carry on our plans, and we ask the whole-hearted cooperation of every single alumna.

Perhaps the most important single job that alumnae can do for their Alma Mater this year is in the field of prospective students. Help us to select the best high school students. Do all you can, in the way of influence, of acquainting the public with the fine things Wesleyan offers, and of providing scholarship aid for students.

If there is not a Wesleyan Club in your home town, write to the office for help in organizing one. If you meet only once or twice a year it will mean much in keeping your college before the people in your community.

Memorial Scholarship Fund For Wesleyan

In August, 1952, there came to Wesleyan through a bequest from the late Eloise (Cooper) Cannon, B.S. 1914, the sum of $10,000 for a scholarship fund to be known as the Renee Eloise Cannon Scholarship Fund in memory of her daughter.

Changes Made In Faculty And Staff

Miss Cornelia Shivers of Americus, a 1952 graduate of Wesleyan with M.A. degree from Northwestern University, formerly assistant professor of history at Brenau College, is assistant professor of history at Rivoli.

In the speech department at Conservatory, Mrs. Harriet Gregory, Macon, will teach Radio. At present Mrs. Gregory is associated with WMAZ as a narrator of the children's program, Storyland. A 1946 graduate of Westminster College, New Wilmington, Pa., she formerly taught speech in the public school at Romeo, Michigan, and was a staff member of Station WGPB, Pittsburgh.

Miss Nancy Green of Alexandria, Va., a 1943 graduate of Agnes Scott College with an M.A. degree from Emory University, teaches chemistry. She worked in the American Pharmaceutical Association laboratory in Washington, D. C., from her graduation until 1947, after which time she taught chemistry for two years at LaGrange College, Georgia.

Mrs. Teresa Rett English, a 1948 graduate of the Wesleyan Conservatory and School of Fine Arts, is teaching fashion illustration and dress design in the art department. A native of Macon, she has been teaching at the Alexander III elementary school.

Norman F. Williamson, Jr., of Bloomfield, N. J., is an instructor in mathematics and physics. A 1949 graduate of Emory University, he has done graduate work at the same institution and plans to finish a thesis this year for his Master of Arts degree. For the past 16 months Williamson has been a member of the technical staff for Bell Telephone Laboratories, Inc., in New York. He is a veteran of World War II with service in the Army Signal Corps.

Miss Elizabeth Hoge of Philadelphia, new librarian at the Conservatory, comes from senior high school at Johnstown, Pa., where she served as librarian since 1923. She received both an A.B. in French and Spanish and an M.A. in French, Spanish and English from West Virginia University. While studying in the graduate school, she was head cataloger in the library there. In 1932 she received A.B.S. degree in library science from Columbia University. This degree was recognized by Columbia as an M.S. in library science in 1949. She studied in Europe during the summers of 1930 and 1937.

Miss Barbara Swartz of Carbondale, Illinois, is teaching piano in the junior division. She attended Southern Illinois University at Carbondale for one year and received the B.M. degree cum laude from Muskingum College, New Concord, Ohio, in 1951. In June 1952 she received the Master of Music degree from Florida State University.

Miss Frances Causey, Macon, a 1952 cum laude graduate of Wesleyan, will assist Miss Elizabeth Winn in the registrar's office in addition to teaching one class in psychology at the Conservatory as Dr. Isabella Thoburn's assistant.

Miss Jean Tolbert of Macon has been appointed to the staff as order assistant in the Rivoli library. Miss Tolbert, a 1952 graduate of Wesleyan, worked in the library as a student assistant for four years, and was a regular member of the library staff during the past summer school term.

News Flash From Our Wandering Eunice!

It finally arrived! What, you ask? Why, that first letter from Eunice since she left the halls of dear old Wesleyan for that Emory Campus. We tore it open and discovered, thank goodness, that she had survived the rigors of registration. She reports in part as follows:

"I'm in Harris Hall, Room 7, Emory University, Georgia. It is a fine room — nice big closet and bath which I share with a Filipino lady named Rosalina Seveses whose husband is in the American army now in Germany.

"I was the most excited person here until about mid-afternoon, when I was still standing in line to pay the Bursar. Never got it done. Window closed at 4:15, with most of us still waiting. How they ever get through I wonder. It is worse than our registration, Winn will be glad to know.

"Dr. Smith of the English department is the husband of Winifred (Jones) Smith, A.B. 1930. He did suggest my taking the teaching English degree, but gave up quickly.

"I went to see Margaret Richards, A.B. 1924, tonight and was lost on the way both going and coming. I must get me a map of Atlanta.

"Alice Weldon, A.B. 1952, starting a two and a half year nursing course, is on my floor, And Mozelle Tumlin, A.B. 1915, is on the switchboard here at night.

"I have three courses that meet every day; 16th century lit. — Rouse; Chaucer — Smith; and Byron, Keats and Shelley — Pafford; and bibliography three times a week in the afternoon — English. This afternoon I had for the first time the Bibliography course under Dr. English, and if he isn't just trying to scare some of us out of the class (which I doubt since there are only eight of us) then he thinks it is almost imperative that we know all about everything, as well as all about 10 centuries of English lit.

"The library will be enough work in itself — I mean the mechanics of using it. Took me two days to get the stack card — what with some little delays.

And today for the first time I was admitted to the English stacks (the only ones, even with very special privilege, that I could look at). There are three subterranean floors of them, and the catalog system is Library of Congress, and not the one we use.

"I am still pleased with the role of little schoolgirl, and it is exciting to be in this atmosphere — people of all ages, from little boys who haven't shaved yet, to old codgers.

"Luck to you all, and don't worry about anything, as I am going to — not worry, I mean."

Don't worry, she says! But maybe with encouraging letters from Eunice we will manage. We know you are all interested in her activities this year so your acting Alumnae Director will keep you posted from time to time.

Wesleyan Professor Receives Important Regional Post

Miss Mildred Hudgins, assistant professor of religion at Wesleyan College, was notified the first of October that she had been appointed to the Jacksonville Regional Personnel Committee. This committee serves for a period of four years and meets once each quarter to interview and appraise candidates for both foreign and home missions.

After the interviews are completed the committee then makes recommendations regarding the candidate's acceptability. The duties of the committee also include cultivating, enlisting and training the young candidates.

A former missionary to Japan, Miss Hudgins has served as an alternate member of this regional committee in previous years.

Sue Maxwell

Sue Maxwell, 1920, was recently appointed head of the department of journalism at Bradley University, Peoria, Ill., where she has been on the English faculty since 1946. She will continue to teach English and journalism.

Active in the club life of Peoria, Sue gives popular book reviews and light lectures . . . for the past two years largely on her own humorous book of essays, South American Fiesta, published in 1950.

Active on the campus, Dr. Sue, as the pupils call her, heads the English Club, sparking its chartered trips to Chicago theatricals each semester; sponsors the Gamma Phi Beta Sorority; and is Faculty Director for Bradley's spring presentation of Shakespeare's Tempest for March, 1953. Almost a theatre-in-the-round production, that show will use a simulated island for its stage . . . a unique idea in Shakespearean history.

Wesleyan Students Awarded National Meth. Scholarships

Two students on the Rivoli campus of Wesleyan are recipients of the National Methodist scholarships for 1952-53. They are Mary Ann Meadows of Cochran, Georgia, a senior, and Lucille Fossum of Miami, Florida, a sophomore.

These scholarships are honor awards from the Methodist Church, the money for this purpose having been derived from a church-wide offering made on Methodist Student Day. The purpose of these scholarships is to strengthen the program of the Methodist Church through the active participation in campus and community religious life of these scholarship winners.

New Officers For The Alumnae Association

A new slate of officers for the Wesleyan Alumnae Association took over at Commencement, succeeding those faithful and efficient ones who had served for the past three years.

Freda (Kaplan) Nadler, A.B. 1926, succeeds Florence (Trimble) Jones, A.B. 1920, as president. Freda is the wife of a very busy and very civic-minded attorney, now retired from active practice, who has spent the past six years as a law professor at Mercer University, has written several law books, and has just stepped down as president of the Macon Art Association. Since 1945, when they bought a lovely old home on Wesleyan Drive, near the liberal arts campus, Freda and "Charles" have meant much to Macon culturally.

She is a member of the Wesleyan Foundation, has been chairman of publicity for the Macon Alumnae Club; chairman of the Wesleyan Alumnae Seminar Committee which helped sponsor the Contemporary Arts Festival last spring; active in her church, in the Macon Art Association, Little Theatre, and the League of Women Voters. She has abundantly fulfilled the promise she gave as a Wesleyan student, when she was editor-in-chief of the Veterropt, author of the prize-winning skit her senior year, was voted "Most Capable," and in addition to many outside activities, was graduated magna cum laude and Phi Delta Phi. She served as the honor society's president the last four years.

The year after graduation Freda taught at Lanier High School in Macon, but the next five years found her in Chicago and journalism. Miss Garner's student edited "The Oakland Outlook," a South Side weekly, while writing short stories and feature articles for the Chicago Daily News midweek magazine. She shelved all this to go to Europe in 1933, and upon her return wrote and produced a three-nights-a-week radio drama series for the Chicago Herald-Examiner. After marrying a Cleveland, Ohio, attorney, she wrote features for the Cleveland Plain Dealer and gave much time to community social service, becoming a leader in Big Sister work.

A recent A.A.U.W. Journal says, "The best single branch project in the whole South Atlantic Region was the Child Guidance Center Film strip." Freda wrote the script for this.

Formerly a voice student, she returned to the Conservatory last year for a course in art appreciation.

The Nadlers travel a lot and have just completed a 4½ month visit to South America, which Freda tells about in this magazine.

Jacqueline (Howard) Edwards, B.S. 1938, is first vice-president in charge of classes and commencement activities, succeeding Kay (Bailey) Burts, who becomes a new member of the Alumnae Board of Managers. Jacqueline was president of the Debaters' Council and of the Atlanta Club as a student, was a member of the Crucible Club,

Freda (Kaplan) Nadler
... President

and was representative in "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities." She did graduate work at Emory and at the University of Michigan, and had a private kindergarten in Decatur for several years after her graduation. She is married to Dr. William Thomas Edwards, Jr., who is now practicing ophthalmology in Atlanta, and they have one son, William Schley, named for Jacqueline's great-great-grandfather, who was Governor of Georgia at the time when Wesleyan was chartered, and a small daughter. She has held offices in the Atlanta Alumnae Club, and was outstandingly successful in putting on various benefits which the club sponsored.

Malene (Lee) Morgan, A.B. 1932, succeeds Virginia (Banks) St. John as second vice-president in charge of Wesleyan clubs. She was active in athletics, in the Y.W.C.A., and in writing, as a member of the staff of The Watchtower as a student, and received cum laude honors when she was graduated.

She is chiefly remembered, however, as one of the most graceful dancers among the students, and no May festival or pageant program was complete without a solo dance by Malene. In addition, she worked as a student assistant in the Alumnae Office for two years, and was field representative for Wesleyan in west Tennessee, northern Mississippi, and eastern Arkansas the summer between her Junior and Senior years. After graduation she held responsible secretarial positions until her marriage in 1942 to Charlie Morgan of Macon, who received his commission as a captain in the U. S. Marine Corps in 1943, and has been recently director of the parks department of Georgia. Malene is active in the work of the American Legion Auxiliary, and was director one year of Girls State, which was held on the Wesleyan campus. She was state president of the American Legion Auxiliary for the year 1951-1952, and is now National Executive Committeewoman for Georgia.

Forrest (Pitts) Blackwell, 1911, will be third vice-president in charge of the historical collection, and succeeds Ida (Shel-nutt) Wylly. She is well-known in Birmingham, Ala., where she lives, for her lectures and book reviews, and on two occasions she has graciously come to Macon to be guest lecturer for alumnae-sponsored programs for the benefit of the Macon Club Scholarship Fund. Once she spoke on "Furniture through the Ages" and once on "Porcelain." During the Second Century Fund Campaign for Wesleyan she served as Area Chairman for Alabama. On her most recent visit to Wesleyan, just last year, she was accompanied by her husband, who is now retired and interests himself especially in camellias. Mr. Blackwell fell in love with his wife's Alma Mater, and becomes a member of our mythical "Alumnae Husband's Club" made up of those men who aid and abet their Wesleyan alumnae wives in all they do for the college!

Jacqueline (Howard) Edwards
... first vice-president

Malene (Lee) Morgan
... second vice-president

Forrest (Pitts) Blackwell
... third vice-president

Floye (Powell) Dumas
... fourth vice-president

Floye (Powell) Dumas, A.B. 1914, succeeds Jane Anne (Mallet) Settle as fourth vice-president, in charge of high school relations. She is Dean of Women at Washington Seminary, a position she has held since 1940, and one of her co-workers says of her: "She has done a wonderful job, and all of the teachers and girls love her. She is a very understanding person. Her deeply religious life (she is a member of St. Mark's Church) and her keen insight into educational problems make her outstanding in her field. She has done graduate work at Peabody, and also at Vanderbilt, and holds the M.A. degree from Peabody. She has traveled extensively.

Irene (Sewell) Hobby, A.B. 1922, is the newly elected secretary, succeeding Frances (Cater) Snow. Irene was president of the Y.W.C.A. at Wesleyan, and has been very active in church work during all the years since. She has been a moving spirit in the work of the Atlanta Wesleyan Club, and has served on the Executive Board. Her husband is Dr. A. Worth Hobby of Atlanta, a specialist in diseases of the chest, and their only son is Lovickworth Hobby, now an outstanding student at Duke University, and a member of the Glee Club. Irene's close contact with Wesleyan through the years since her graduation gives her an unusual insight into the problems of the college and an understanding of its ideals.

Elizabeth (Harman) Woodall, A.B. 1948, succeeds Lila May Chapman as treasurer, and represents the younger group of Wesleyan graduates among the new officers. She is a magna cum laude and Phi Delta Phi graduate of Wesleyan, and worked in the Alumnae Office the summer following her senior year. Her mother, Mrs. Luther Harman, has been for three years an Assistant in the office, and "Libba" is also in close touch with what goes on in alumnae affairs.

In December, 1948, she was married to John Woodall of Woodland, and a recent issue of the alumnae magazine carried a picture of the two small sons who became her boys at this time, Larry and Charles. Henry Harman Woodall, or "Skip," as he is called, arrived in March, 1951.

Honor Society Chooses Four

Elizabeth (Conner) Tucker, 1948, president of the local chapter of Phi Delta Phi, announced after the fall meeting in October that four young ladies from the senior class at Wesleyan had been elected to the society.

The four successful candidates this year are Carolyn Blakely of Chester, S. C., daughter of Bernice (Hurst) Blakely, 1924; Jan Gay of Register, Ga.; Jane Cary Chapman, Forsyth; and Eugenia Trapp of Macon.

Admission to membership in Phi Delta Phi is based upon the scholarship of the student and loyalty to the college and its ideals. The scholastic achievement must equal a magna cum laude ratio, and no more than one-eighth of a senior class may be elected. The members are elected upon the recommendation of the faculty.

Wesleyan In The World of Religion

Professor Carl Bennett from Wesleyan gives the following report of a conference on religion that he attended during the summer:

"What is a man's religion? What is the Christian world view? What is the Christian theory of human personality? How do we know what we know? How does the Bible enrich our perspectives? Who, exactly, were Augustine and Thomas Aquinas, and how has their thought affected our lives? How has John Dewey influenced American educational philosophy? What are the relations between science and religion, between church and state, between religion and education?"

"These are some of the questions faced by a group of 21 teachers gathered in Chapel Hill from all over the U.S., guests this summer of the University of North Carolina in a program of study of religion in higher education financed by the William H. Danforth Foundation. As a Danforth fellow, I was able to join this stimulating group in an intensive five-week curriculum under guidance of experts in theology, philosophy, science, and law. There we tried to discover for ourselves the implications of our religious faith as it relates to our professional responsibilities as teachers in American colleges and universities."

"Wesleyan has a distinguished record as a center where faith and reason are integrated in the lives of students training themselves to meet the issues of our society. The Danforth program has, I hope, fitted me for abler participation in the continuing tradition of Christian scholarship at Wesleyan."

Wesleyan In South America

By Freda (Kaplan) Nadler, '26)

When my husband, my friend Ruth, and I sailed for South America last March, we carried eleven pieces of luggage, coats for all seasons, letters of introduction, passports, camera, and other equipment, including a list of Wesleyan Alumnae who lived below the Equator.

We went through the locks and spent a week at Panama's much-pictured new hotel, then two weeks in Peru, and were on our third week in Chile before we could contact the first Wesleyanne. She was Mrs. C. W. Brooks (Mary Brooks Lester, A.B. 1929) who lives in Concepcion. I called her from Santiago, a hundred miles away, and as it was impossible for us to see each other, we had a very pleasant telephone visit.

Mary Brooks told me her husband is an electrical engineer at the large new U.S. financed steel mill, and that they have lived for six years in Concepcion. They have three children, boys fourteen and thirteen, and a girl, Mary Linda, aged eight. The youngsters study Spanish and French in school; she is teaching them English. Her boys are learning U.S. history from a book she used at Wesleyan in a course taught by Mr. Daniels!

Ever since going to Chile she has served as an officer of the Woman's Mis-

ON THE CAMPUS

Six Wesleyan seniors, two from the Fine Arts School and four from the Liberal Arts School, had a part in the very impressive program of the city-wide meeting held in the Macon auditorium marking the publication of the Revised Standard Version of the Bible.

Lucia Hutchinson, a conservatory student from Newbern, N. C., introduced the readers who read well loved passages from different versions of the Bible. Edwina Hall, conservatory senior, of Macon, read from the Hebrew version; Jane Cary Chapman, of Forsyth, read from the Greek; Jerry Dixon, of College Park, from the Latin; Anne Rast, of Dillon, S. C., from the King James version; and Grace Maxwell, of Roanoke, Ala., from the Revised Standard Version.

RELIGIOUS EMPHASIS WEEK

"We look at them, they look at us, and God sees us all," was the theme for religious emphasis week which began October 20 on the Rivoli campus.

Miss Margaret Billingsley, formerly a missionary to Korea and now executive secretary of the Woman's Division of the Methodist Church for work in the Far East, spoke at the opening chapel service. Wednesday, Miss Katharine Johnson of the Wesleyan English faculty, recently returned from Japan, told of the Japanese impressions of America and Americans generally. Friday the closing service was a dedication service.

sionary Union and teaches Sunday School. The Union Church, composed of all denominations in the "American" colony (less than 250) meet at the Methodist Church.

Mary Brooks was glad to hear from home. "I surely do enjoy the Alumnae Magazine," she said, "and read with interest of Dr. Quillian's return. How I'd love to see him!"

Over the Andes we went next, through the Chilean lakes, across the dusty pampas of Argentina, to Buenos Aires where I tried to reach Mrs. John C. Terry (Mary Bulloch, Ex. 1918). She was out visiting in the United States! We spent a month seeing and trying to understand the police state which a dying Evita had helped create; then we sailed up to Rio.

There we found Eloisa Marinho, daughter of a Brazilian physician, who was in school with me. She came to Wesleyan in 1924, having graduated from the Colegio Bennett, the American Methodist Mission School in Rio. Today Eloisa, lithe, vital, and as young looking as I remembered, is principal of the normal course at this same school. She also teaches a graduate course at the Instituto de Educacao, where she prepares kindergarten teachers.

We talked together about Wesleyan at tea on the marble-ballustraded terrace of the Hotel Gloria. Below us stretched the famous crescent bay of Rio, with Sugar Loaf mountain a crouching animal to our right. The sunset glory faded into mauves and grays, the wintry chill of August crept under our sweaters, but still we sat, remembering. She recalled her journalism days and Miss Garner, "that wonderful teacher," . . . "Pa" Hinton and Mr. Daniels . . . Dr. and Mrs. Quillian, who were so sweet to her and her Chinese roommate, Kwe Yui Kiang, at Junaluska one summer over a quarter of a century ago . . . and Billy Quillian, who, for a price, would "reserve" date seats in the old Grand Parlor behind the door! . . . and Isabella Harris, our good friend, who taught her typing . . . and Macon in the spring, an enchanted bower of peach blossoms and violets and dogwood . . . and the progress Wesleyan has made since she was there.

Eloisa's parents are both still living. She invited us to dine at their home, but we were unable to accept as we were leaving for Sao Paulo, industrialized wonder-city of South America. There we tried to find Mrs. Charles van de Putte (Frances Ravellette — Sp. 1939), but with no success.

We had no success either in locating Mrs. E. H. Clayton (Elizabeth Stephenson, A.B. 1926), who lives in Bahia, Brazil. I hopefully addressed a reasonable facsimile of my classmate in the rooftop restaurant of Sears-Roebuck, the North American's home-away-from-home, but the lady was not Liz.

Two interesting Rio encounters had Wesleyan overtones. At the Fourth of July picnic given annually by the American Society of Brazil, we met Dr. Joseph M. Stokes, native of Bainbridge, Georgia, cousin of Senator Walter F. George, and son, he told us, of a Wesleyan Alumna.

Dr. Stokes is principal of a school of Aeronautics near Sao Paulo, and invited us there.

Next night, at the reception given by Secretary of State and Mrs. Dean Acheson, in the American Embassy, we found a couple from Pakistan, whom we had met at Wesleyan when they spoke there more than a year before. At that time they represented their country at the United Nations; now Dr. Isa is ambassador to Brazil, his five-year-old country's first to South America. His sari-draped begum was by far the most beautiful lady of the evening. They invited us to tea at their temporary embassy at the Copa Cabana Palace Apts. There, a few days later, they told us, "We'll always remember Macon and Wesleyan because of the wonderful friendship extended to us there." Our own U.S. Ambassador to Brazil, Hershel V. Johnson, said he had a couple of aunts at Wesleyan, "before the War Between the States."

Rio, with its camellias and red clay — and red bugs! — made us think of Georgia. All parts of South America reminded us of some part of North America, and we returned to our own beloved U.S.A. in August with the profound conviction that the two continents must try to understand each other, to be friends and mutual supporters. For we are part of the same hemisphere, the same world.

Wesleyan In Europe

Imagine a summer spent amid the glorious past and present cultures of Europe! Imagine the excitement of leaving quaint old Quebec on a modern liner, the thrill of arriving in London and going from there to various points of interest on the European continent. This became a reality for 15 girls from the southeastern section of the United States.

Among these were four 1952 Wesleyan graduates, Martha Davis of Warrenton, Suzanne McCowen of Atlanta, Delma Findlay of Macon, and Louise Smith of Columbus; two special students, Catherine Anderson of Macon and Minnie Coleman of Warrenton; and one 1951 graduate, Courtney Knight of Savannah, joined the group in Italy.

Conducted by Dr. Gulnar Bosch of the Wesleyan Faculty, the tour took on meaning for these future citizens of the world. Organized to combine sight seeing, and learning with relaxation and pleasure, the tour offered enough leisure time for the participants to absorb the glories of the dynamic cultures represented.

England brings memories of the Royal palaces, Westminster Abbey and museums of London. Memories also of seeing Shakespeare performed at Stratford, where between the acts swans floated proudly on the Avon. The girls will also remember drinking High Tea, and shopping for cashmeres, tweeds, and old silver.

Following a foggy crossing of the channel, St. Malo, France, an old medieval fortress town, was a perfect introduction to the fascinating country. With perfect timing a motor coach was waiting there to travel through Normandy villages to the cathedral of Mont St. Michel. Passing then through fertile Chatteau country, they visited the Cathedral of Chartres. With radiant stained glass windows and superb sculpture, Chartres spiritually enlightened the tourists as it had stimulated other travelers down through the centuries.

Following the gothic harmonies of Chartres, 8 days were spent in gay, care-free, modern, glittering Paris. Annapolis midshipmen, also visiting the fabulous city, helped to make their stay more pleasant. During these days trips were made to nearby Fontainebleau and Versailles where can be found the finest examples of interior decoration and landscape gardening.

On then to Brussels for wedding veils and delicate lace, past the castle-bordered Rhine, old Heidelberg, and on to Lucerne high in the snow covered Alps, located nearby a shimmering lake, where the girls rested and shopped. Not only did they buy fine Swiss watches but also several of the girls realized life long ambitions when in a small gallery they selected and bought original works of Art.

Breathlessly they traveled from Milan, Italy, to Pompeii, their eyes saturated by the succession of great art works of the Renaissance and Roman Civilization. Venice, the queen city of the Adriatic, took on the splendor of old as the passenger-filled gondolas floated through. Following this experience, biblical and art students alike admired the chapel at Padua painted by Giotto, and the mosaic covered churches of Ravenna.

Probably the sights which most thrilled the group were the works of Michelangelo; the statue of David in Florence, and the Sistine Chapel paintings in Rome. Other invaluable experiences were the presentation of the Opera "Tosca" in the Roman ruins of the baths of Caracalla and exploring the Blue Grotto at Capri.

Cruising along the silvery Mediterranean under a full moon, the girls sadly remembered that their glorious trip was almost over. Stops at Genoa, Cannes, Gibraltar and Lisbon climaxed the tour, and the gay group boarded the Liner headed toward the United States and home. An exciting summer well spent.

Mrs. Bosch, who heads the Art History Department at Wesleyan, will conduct a similar tour next summer and has added Spain to her itinerary.

Alumnae Children In The Magazine

In February, 1950, we began using a regular page of children's pictures in the magazine, and during the eleven issues since then, 223 children (both boys and girls, of assorted ages) have wandered through the pages of the magazine.

Mentioned in connection with the pictures were 102 alumnae mothers, 36 grandmothers, 13 great-grandmothers, 4 great-great-grandmothers, 2 aunts — a total of 157 alumnae.

If we have not had your darlings yet, won't you send us a snapshot? It is quite permissible for one to lay aside all modesty and "point with pride" to one's children or grandchildren, or nieces and nephews!

THE LOYALTY FUND FOR 1952-53

On September 1 we began a new Loyalty Fund year, and a record of all alumnae givers for the previous year was sent to every alumna of Wesleyan.

The goal of the Loyalty Fund is to have every one of Wesleyan's 7,500 living alumnae give something each year to her Alma Mater. The amount of each individual gift is not important; some of us can give more than others. We have alumnae who can and do give $1,000, $500, $300, $200, or $100 each year, but most of us give much smaller amounts, $10, $5, or $1.

We have reason to feel proud of the record of the past three years, for the number of givers and the amount of the total gift has climbed slowly but steadily each year. That means that more and more each year alumnae are realizing the importance of giving to Christian education through their own college; more Wesleyan alumnae can feel a part of the progress of their college today.

The Class Fund Agents

For many years we have followed the plan used by many colleges, that of having a group of alumnae in each class act as "Fund Agents" to remind their classmates of the Loyalty Fund. During the past three years, a very special effort has been put on securing the help of a large number of Class Fund Agents, and to them we owe much of the credit for the success of the Loyalty Fund during these years.

During the past three years a total of 635 different alumnae have served in this capacity, sending out ten letters each to classmates. Some have served for two, or even three years. A total of 11,620 personal notes have been mailed out to alumnae by the Class Fund Agents in these three years.

This year we have a total of 412 Fund Agents. This takes care of a little more than half of our alumnae body. The rest of the Loyalty Fund letters go out from the Alumnae Office.

This year, we looked over our list of Fund Agents for 1951-52, and granted a "leave of absence" to those faithful ones who had served three years. Most of the others were willing to serve again, so in the list of names below you will find 75 alumnae who are sending out the letters for the third time; 115 who are doing this job for the second time; and 222 new Fund Agents.

Many of you Fund Agents have written in asking to hear whether your ten have responded. In the next issue of the Alumnae Magazine we will list those contributors by classes up to the time we go to press. In this way you Fund Agents can check the results of your letters.

We feel that the alumnae enjoy this contact with old friends whom they have not heard from, in some cases, since college days. And it is a great help to the college and to the Loyalty Fund!

Memorial Books Given To Library

Miss Lila May Chapman, A.B. 1890, has presented four beautifully illustrated Heritage Press editions to the library in memory of her friends, Miss Agnes Barden, A.B. 1890, and Miss Sallie Boone, A.B. 1887.

In Memory of Miss Agnes Barden:
Browning, Elizabeth Barrett — "Sonnets from the Portuguese," illus. by Valenti Angelo.

Chaucer, Geoffrey — "Canterbury Tales," ed. by F. E. Hill. Illus. by Arthur Szyk.

In Memory of Miss Sallie Boone:
Cellini, Benvenuto — "Autobiography," illus. by Fritz Kredel.
Pushkin, Alexander — "The Golden Cockerel," illus. by Edmund Dulac.

Miss Carnes, the librarian, says "each of these is in a very beautiful format. Both Miss Sallie and Miss Agnes understood the importance of illuminating the printed word in a vigorous and colorful fashion. I know they would have liked these books as memorials to them."

Another book, "The Pleasures of Music" by Jacques Barzun, has been presented by Katharine Carnes as a memorial to John L. Gilmore, son of Rosaline (Jenkins) Gilmore, A.B. 1919.

ATTENTION!

Marie (Boyette) Malone, Mrs. Tom Malone, of 607 Sixth Ave., Albany, is anxious to secure a 1922 Wesleyan Veropt or even one for the year 1921. If any Alumna has one of these annuals she is willing to part with, please write Mrs. Malone.

Diogenes' Man

An item which appeared in a Macon paper recently will interest many Wesleyan alumnae because Carl Bennett, mentioned in the article, is a Wesleyan professor of English and Eli K. Willcox is a brother of two alumnae, Mary Louise Willcox, A.B. '43, and Anice Willcox, A.B. '48. The item read:

"If Diogenes were alive today, his search for an honest man would be easy. He could stop at a filling station in McRae and ask for Eli K. Willcox and his search would be over.

"Carl Bennett of Macon, on a trip back to his home here, stopped at the Willcox station for gas. When he reached home he realized that he had given the dealer a $5 bill instead of a $1.

"Bennett wrote Willcox. Back came a letter with $4 and a very nice note."

CLUB NEWS

Atlanta Club

The Atlanta Wesleyan Alumnae Club held a luncheon meeting Saturday, November 1, in the Alumni Building, Emory University, presided over by Irene (Brewer) Brewer, president.

Mrs. J. O'H Sanders of Atlanta was guest speaker.

Miss Eunice Thomson, Alumnae Director now studying on her Master's at Emory University, was a special guest. Malene (Lee) Morgan, Macon, acting director, Mr. T. E. Thrasher from the College, and Freda (Kaplan) Nadler, president National Alumnae Assn., also attended the meeting.

Columbus Club

In September the new officers met at the home of Martha (Zachry) Thwaite, '39, president, at a "coffee" to plan the year's activities. The other officers are: vice-president, Jennie Louise Smith, '52; secretary, Helen (Cooper) Williams, '52; treasurer, Louise (Holloway) Waldron, '50; publicity chairman, Virginia (Scott) Estes, '37; scrapbook chairman, Minnie (Smith) Faber, '16.

Plans were discussed for participation of the Club in the reception for the visit to Columbus of Miss America, Neva Jane Langley.

On September 12 the Club had a car decorated with Wesleyan banners for the big parade welcoming Neva and several members attended the dinner dance that night.

The Club's program for the year is "European Travel in 1952." Louise Smith, who was a member of the Fine Arts European Tour under the direction of Dr. Bosch, will give two illustrated talks using films made in the eight countries in which the party traveled.

Meetings are held in October, February and May in the form of program teas at the Bradley Memorial Library Club Room.

Macon Club

The Macon Wesleyan Alumnae Club honored the members of the Miller High School senior class and their parents at a tea on the Rivoli campus on Sunday afternoon, October 26.

The party was planned at the first fall meeting of the Macon Club which was held in Wesleyan Conservatory parlors on October 7 with Wray (Shepherd) Marsh, '34, the president, presiding. The speaker at this meeting was Mr. Tigner E. Thrasher, executive director of the Wesleyan Foundation, who discussed the subject, Alumnae Activities in the College of Today. Mr. Thrasher paid tribute to the invaluable services of Wesleyan alumnae, stressing their contribution in the public relations field.

Other officers of the Macon Club are: Evelyn (Thaxton) Thrasher, Katherine (Jordan) Stewart and Mary Pate, first, second and third vice-presidents in the order named; Rosalie (Radford) Stillwell, secretary; Margaret (Murphy) Martin, treasurer; Banks Armand, Frances (Stevens) Dessau, Eloise (Davis) Culverhouse, Emily Orr, Elizabeth (Walker) Preston and Fran (Martin) Burns, group leaders; Martha (Clark) Baker, chairman of vanilla sales.

The Club will sponsor a Barter Theatre production, "The Virginian," in the Conservatory Chapel in March, as a fund-raising project.

Washington, D. C. Club

Carrie Lou Allgood, new president of the Washington Wesleyan Alumnae Club, entertained the other new officers at dinner at the Kennedy-Warren in July. At this time enthusiastic plans were made for the Club's activities for the coming year. The officers are Carrie Lou Allgood, president; Martha (Barron) Stecher, vice-president; Agnes Leverette, treasurer; Odille (Dasher) Phelts, recording secretary; Carol Arnold, program chairman.

We tentatively agreed to have four big meetings during the year in November, January, March and May. The January meeting may be a "Student Program" planned to arouse interest among the senior high school students in our Alma Mater.

CLASS NOTES

Dorothy (Blount) Lamar was honored at a luncheon during the 57th annual convention of the Georgia division of the U.D.C. at St. Simons Island, in October. She is a past president-general of the U.D.C., and has always taken a leading part in its work.

1885

Lewella (Ashburn) Jones has recovered from a serious illness of last year and writes that she is "back to my young self, eighty-six, and enjoying life." She is looking forward to a trip to Virginia to the wedding of her fourth granddaughter.

1889

Word has reached the Alumnae Office of the death in 1949 of Ella (Barnes) DeLacy in Waynesville, N. C. She was born near Hamilton, Ga. in 1863, educated at the public school in Harris County, and studied art at Wesleyan under Miss Mollie Mason and was awarded the first medal ever given in art at the college. She married Col. J. F. DeLacy of Eastman. One of her paintings was given to Wesleyan three years ago by her niece, Mrs. Lyle Ormsby. This information was sent in by May (DeLacy) Jessup, '95, of Eastman.

Lila Mae Chapman of Macon, former National Alumnae officer and former Alumnae Trustee, according to a clipping from a Birmingham, Ala., paper has donated a rare collection of early American pressed glass goblets to the Museum of Art there.

The class of '90 will be grieved to learn of the death of Janie (Tharpe) Henry on July 28 at the home of her son, Robert Samuel Henry, Jr., in Chattanooga, Tenn. She was the daughter of Jane Killern and James Davis Tharpe, and was born on a plantation near Perry, Ga. She was the widow of Dr. Robert S. Henry, Sr., graduate of the Baltimore College of Dental Surgery, now Johns Hopkins Dental College. Her husband was a colonel in the Tennessee National Guard, and won national recognition in rifle matches. He was an inventor, specializing in the military field. She is survived by her son, a daughter, Jen Ruth Henry Eager, and five grandchildren.

Sympathy is extended to Kate (Brown) Reid in the death of her husband in May.

1893

Bessie (Fox) Beggs and her daughter, Elizabeth, live in Savannah, but come often to Macon to visit the younger daughter, Catherine Beggs McLaughlin, and her husband and two sons. Bessie kept up her music for many years after her graduation from Wesleyan (when she received the medal in voice), studying in Baltimore and Chicago, singing in church choirs, and taking part in light operas. She says that her music has given her more genuine happiness than almost anything in her life.

Mary (Robison) Hobby is the Honorary President of the Alabama Conference of the Women's Society of Christian Service. Her home is Union Springs, Ala.

Emma (Walker) Wylly, who has been with her daughter on Staton Island, N. Y., trying to mend a broken hip, writes to her classmate, Lula (Fulghum) Vincent: "I do recall the dear days when we were in college. I have had many busy years since, many of them difficult and strenuous, but withal happy! I can truly say that life has been beautiful, made so by my companion, the same George Wylly who was my sweetheart through college. Memories keep it happy. My children and grandchildren help to keep me in tune with the times, and it is certainly true that 'the world do move,' but we would not have it otherwise. Lately my greatest joy has been the Hammond organ which my daughter has in her home. I am sometimes so absorbed I let the time pass unheeded and find myself so stiff I am scarcely able to move off the bench!"

The city of Orlando, Fla., honored Edna (Giles) Fuller on her 78th birthday with a reception at the Amherst. Guests included businessmen who first knew her as their Sunday School teacher; 140 members of the Volunteer Class at the First Methodist Church which she has taught for many years; men and women who have served with her on civic and philanthropic committees during the past half-century; her two daughters, her foster children; and her grandchildren. Besides her teaching and many religious activities in the past, Edna (Giles) Fuller was Orange County's first feminine representative in Tallahassee in 1928. She, no doubt, is thinking about the year ahead and what needs to be done.

Lucy (Keen) Johnson's granddaughter entered New York State College for Teachers at Albany in September. Dean worked all summer and said that all of her earnings went into the bank to be applied on her room and board—that "Of course Dad would pay the rest." As might be expected of Lucy's granddaughter, she is doing excellent work.

Sympathy is extended to Mamie (Robinson) Felton in the death of her husband, Judge Jule Felton of Montezuma, and to his two daughters Frances Felton, A.B. '22, and Mary (Felton) Paulk, A.B. '32.

Annie (Felder) Jelks writes: "I am now the proud great-grandmother of two fine boys, three and one years old, and at the 'tender' age of 72 years! I am busily engaged in managing a 24-unit apartment building in Quitman. Mary (Mabbett) Bowman still lives here and is still organist of our church, though her health has not been good for the past several months. My son and his family live in Albany. He is Plant Manager of the Bell Telephone Office there. My granddaughter, Adrienne Barnes of Coral Gables, was so happy at the Conservatory last year and is back this fall, specializing in art."

Helena E. (Ogden) Campbell, through whose influence Wesleyan has a lovely collection of contemporary paintings and pieces of sculpture, has herself had three paintings in an Exhibition in Vermont this summer, the 23rd Annual Exhibition of Southern Vermont Artists. The titles of her entries were "Brownie," "Pumpkin Time" and "Mary."

Dorothy (Rogers) Tilly spoke at the morning service of the Morgan Memorial Church in Boston, Mass., on September 14. She had taught in the School of Missions at Andover in the New England Conference.

Viola (Ross) Napier this month celebrates her 25th year as clerk for the City of Macon. In September the Macon News had a glowing account of her various activities and her successful career in politics. She served four years in the Georgia Legislature and was the first woman to make arguments before the Georgia Court of Appeals and the Supreme Court of the state. She was admitted to the Georgia Bar in 1920. She was one of seven outstanding Macon women who were honored at a banquet during National Business Women's Week September 28 through October 4.

Mary Addie (Murph) Mullino writes that it was a pleasure to be a class fund agent.

1903

Sympathy is extended to Seaton (Taylor) Purdom of Sparta and to Miss Harriet Taylor, A.B. 1909, of Decatur, in the death of their brother in September.

1904

The Alumnae Office heard recently of the death on February 27, 1951 of Florrie (Bryan) Milton.

Jewel (Davis) Scarborough writes about being a class fund agent as follows: "It was a joy to write these letters this year for they were all to old friends whom I had 'lost'."

The friends and classmates of Cliff Mable of Decatur will regret to learn she has been bedridden for five years.

Kate (Robinson) Butler, whose husband is editor and publisher of the Buffalo Evening News, enjoyed a tour of Europe this fall.

New honor has come to our own Sara (Branham) Matthews. On October 3, she received a Distinguished Service citation from the University of Chicago Medical Alumni Association. As principal bacteriologist at the National Institutes of Health, a research arm of the Public Health Service, she is at present directing investigations of the diphtheria toxins.

Loulie Barnett is still recuperating from a badly cut eye which kept her shut-in practically all the summer.

Florine (Burdick) Davis enjoyed a recent trip to Atlanta to attend the annual meeting of the Huguenot Society of the Founders of Mannakin, Va. She accompanied Mary Bennett (Cox) Dunwody who sang at the meeting. Another alumna who also attended the meeting was Olive (McWilliams) Hatcher.

Noralee (Johnson) Tiller's grandsons (whose pictures appear in this magazine) were written up last year in the paper because they had two acres of cotton and made two bales on their land. The story came out in the county newspaper, in several dailies, and finally in The Progressive Farmer.

Although Maybelle (Jones) Dewey's husband, Dr. Malcolm Howard Dewey, retired in 1950 from faculty of Emory University, he continues to direct the famed Emory Glee Club and choir at Glenn Memorial Church as well as continue research on music and art. He also happens to be quite a gardener!

Sympathy is extended to Helen (Mal-lary) Birdsey in the death of her husband in October, and to his daughter, Sanford (Birdsey) McGrail, 1946, and his sister, Myra Birdsey, 1908.

Sympathy is extended to Sara Lee (Thornton) Jackson in the death recently of her husband.

Ruth (Calhoun) Shackleford has her hands full as the wife of the pastor of St. John Church in Atlanta and a teacher in the high school.

1913

The late Anne (Cunningham) Crittenden's son, Dr. William C. Crittenden, has entered practice as a pediatrician in Birmingham, Ala., living in the old home place on Roseland Drive.

Sympathy is extended to Fannie (Herring) Avera of Rocky Mount, N. C., in death of her husband in April.

Martha (Plant) Ross' daughter, Frances Ellis, had a delightful trip to Europe, bicycling and going by bus in a Student International Travel Association group and stopping at youth hostels in many interesting places.

Emma Mae Rambo, her Wesleyan roommate, Hattie (Stubb) Dickson, and Hattie's husband had a trip to Dallas and Wichita Falls, Texas, in the summer, and they saw their classmate, Kathleen (McRae) Murphree.

Sympathy is extended to Mildred (Shy) Perry in the death of her infant granddaughter, Nancy Catherine Smith.

Alberto (Denton) Marshall, Atlanta Composer-pianist, with her husband attended the Brevard Music Festival this summer.

Agnes (Lettice) Freney, county treasurer, was chosen by the Macon Business and Professional Women's Club as one of seven outstanding Macon women, to be honored the week of September 28 through October 4.

Sympathy is extended to Annie (Manuel) McKinley in the loss of her mother, Mrs. Annie Lewis Manuel, in September.

1915

Frances (Holden) Morrison writes, "When my husband and daughter, Anne Morrison, 1946, made a trip in August through the Smoky Mountains, one of the 'mountain top' experiences was visiting Miss Anne Chenault Wallace, my speech teacher of 1913-1915. She is still her charming and gracious self and a vivid example of what the training in voice development and harmonious body building can mean for health and a long and useful life. Her home is a picturesque cottage with a view of mountains all around. Her address is Black Mountain, N. C., Rt. 1. As her eyes are frail, she cannot do much writing."

1916

Anne Cloud Bass of Brundidge, Ala., is the Recording Secretary of the Alabama Conference of the Women's Society of Christian Service.

Ruth (Beane) Wilson of Montgomery,

Ala., is the Historian of the Alabama Conference of the Women's Society of Christian Service.

Mei-ling (Soong) Chiang came to America in the summer for treatment of a skin ailment. Her Wesleyan friends will think of her affectionately, and wish for her speedy recovery.

Edith (Culpepper) Turpin of Macon spent the summer in Germany to welcome her grandson, William Turpin, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Nelson Turpin of Munich, Germany.

Ruth Elder of Macon is the newly-elected president of the Macon Quill Club.

Lois (Linder) Fleming has written the Alumnae Office concerning the erroneous listing of her contribution to the Loyalty Fund for last year. We regret that credit was given to the wrong class and hasten to make the correction for the class of 1918.

Sara (Singleton) King's aunt, Mrs. J. L. Walker, was honored in Waycross in the summer by ceremonies marking the 14th anniversary of the Laura Walker State Park, named for her.

Sue (Tanner) McKenzie's daughter, Susan Ann, had the thrill of her lifetime this summer when, as she was traveling in Italy with friends, the proprietor of Alfredo's Restaurant brought out a special gold dinner service for her to use. The service, given to Alfredo's by Douglas Fairbanks and Mary Pickford, is used on rare occasions to honor an American guest.

Linda (Anderson) Lane's husband, McKibben Lane, has been named a director of the recently organized Georgia School Board Association. He will represent the Sixth Congressional District.

The many friends of Rosaline (Jenkins) Gilmore will be pleased to learn of the Camp Glisson Organ Memorial Fund that is being raised by voluntary contributions for a fitting memorial to her son, John Gilmore. The contributions are being mailed in care of Mrs. M. L. Hill, Treasurer, 418 Wesley Memorial Church Building, 63 Auburn Avenue, Atlanta.

Anne (Martin) Holmes has had her byline in two national professional journals this year. The English Journal, official organ of the National Council of Teachers of English, printed her article, "Poetry Superlatives," an account of the election which her pupils at Miller High School in Macon held to choose their favorites among the poems studied during the term. The Clearing House, a journal for junior and senior high schools, carried her story, "Magnolias and Bratwurst," in its May issue. The latter story described the high school exchange between Macon and Manitowoc, Wisc., conducted during the spring.

Sue Ellen (Morton) Boyette is consultant of the State Public Relations Commission, and attended G.E.A. Work Conference in August at Young Harris. She is a vice-president of Delta Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma, of which another Wesleyanne, Gerrie Wheeler, A.B. '29, is president.

Louise (Scott) Dennett and two children of Chicago visited the Alumnae Office in September and played some golf on Wesleyan Campus while visiting her father-in-law on Wesleyan Drive.

Mildred (Fincher) Efland writes "Sending out notes this year was a joy, as it always is."

Priscilla (Lobeck) Maynard received the M.F.A. at the State University of Iowa in the summer.

May McMillan is teaching in the Macon school system this year, at Miller Junior High. She has been for several years in Winston-Salem, N. C.

Carolyn (Pharr) Norman has a new daughter born September 14 and named for her grandmother, Ruth (Pinkston) Norman, 1909.

Bettye (Withers) Barnes' husband was graduated from the Graduate School of Banking at Rutgers in June, and they took a trip to New York, where she saw Jane (Robertson) Wisdom (who lives now in Manhasset) and Alice (Burrows) Ritter. Betty (Anderson) Farkas was unable to join them because of the distance. (She lives out on Long Island.) Bettye says they are enjoying their third daughter, Carol. The two older children are Julia and Ronnie, aged 7 and 8.

Louie Frances Woodward is Resident Psychiatrist at Sheppard and Enoch Pratt Hospital, Towson, Md. This is her third and final year of residency in psychiatry. She likes the hospital so much that she plans to stay for a while and continue studying. She says that the hospital is surrounded by 400 acres of lawns, woods, and pasture land and that the frogs and crickets harmonizing remind her of Wesleyan.

Sarah Ann White writes "Harriet (Branan) Meier and her precious Kathy; Angela (Wilkerson) O'Kelley and her adorable son, John; Margaret Sullivan and I had a wonderful spend-the-day together at my sister's home in Atlanta this summer."

Susan (Monk) Romaine writes as follows of some classmates: Ruth Corry has been law librarian at Chapel Hill this summer and plans to get her law degree from Emory this winter. Harriet (Branan) Meier and her husband have bought a home at Chamblee, Ga., near Atlanta. Their Kathy is 1½ years old.

Wesleyan friends will be grieved to learn that Mary (Timmerman) Geeslin was stricken with polio during the summer while en route to New York after a visit to relatives in Georgia. She is, however, making a good recovery. Her mother, Marie (Adams) Timmerman, A.B. '13, went to New York to be with Mary's three small sons while she is in the hospital.

Nell (Tucker) Popper and her little daughter, Susan, of Virginia Beach, spent some time in the summer with Nell's mother, Winnie (Wall) Tucker, '06, in Macon.

Mary Jo (Peterson) McDermid writes, "I don't know when I've enjoyed anything more than being a class fund agent. I'd like to do some letters every year. Takes me back to the days of yore!"

Margie (Ragan) Smith writes she is out of touch with Wesleyan and everyone since she and her husband left for Japan a little over three years ago and have just returned. She says, "We had many interesting experiences and one was meeting some of the missionaries in Nagoya who had known Miss Katharine Johnson and Dr. Sherriff. We are now living in Bethesda, Maryland, with our three daughters, Lawton, Dale, and Judith — all future students for my old Alma Mater, I hope!"

Wini (Bosch) Titterton writes from Hyde Park, N. Y., of spending a day during the summer with Virginia (Dozier) Van Brakle on the "Teena," her father's boat. Her time has been filled with work as Community Chairman for both the Red Cross and the Cerebral Palsy drives in Hyde Park. She reports that Lois (Goldman) Cowan's daughter Hillery is "really bouncing."

Virginia (Harris) Howard of Elizabeth, La., writes of her three children; Ginny Ann, four and one-half, Andy, two and one-half, and Wallace, 7 months.

Genevieve (Kepler) Wilson and family moved to St. Petersburg, Florida, in 1951, where her husband is manager of Florida Theatre. Their second child is Richard, born July, 1951.

Louise (Pate) Skene's small daughter Mary looks a lot like her aunt Mary according to her mama who writes us also news of two other members of the class of '46. Dot Dyal is working for the Highway Department in Atlanta, and Marie Gould is teaching school in the same place.

Sympathy is extended to Helen (Proctor) Morris in the death of her father in Metter in July.

Jane (Wallace) Bagget and her husband are both teaching in the Jeff Davis County School in Hazlehurst, she the sixth grade and he as teacher of vocational agriculture.

Gretchen (Brown) Barrett's husband is a captain in the regular army, and they will be stationed in Omaha for one and a half years.

A lovely picture of Georgann (Dessau) Blum and her little daughter, Stella, appeared in the Macon paper recently when Arnold Blum was playing golf in the National Amateur Gold Tournament in Seattle, Washington, the sixth tournament this year in which he played.

Marjorie (Key) Lawrence and two children arrived by plane from Puerto Rico in July because of the serious illness of her mother, and Marjorie's friends and friends of Marjorie (Gugel) Key, 1924, will be glad to learn that her mother is completely recovered.

Jean (Parkins) Heard's son (whose picture appears in this magazine) is, she writes, "a very happy, healthy baby. At seven months he is standing and crawls everywhere. Screws, hinges, motors of all kinds, and wheels interest him greatly. Any music makes him cry pitifully if he is very tired, and we have tried all kinds from Burl Ives to opera. I'd love for my Wesleyan friends to see him."

Jo Patterson of Waycross since June has been modeling in Italy for Contessa Simonetta Visconte, one of Italy's leading couturieres, and at present is in Rome. She says her Italian will soon confound the experts!

Rosa (Schofield) Spivey and little daughter, Gena, have joined Dr. Spivey in Pensacola where he is serving with the rank of lieutenant (j.g.) in the Naval Hospital.

Patsy (Stapp) Nadon's husband is now a B-36 pilot, and is stationed at Walker Air Force Base in Roswell, N. Mex. They have two daughters, Peggy, four, and Janet two and a half.

The husband of Emmie (Carlton) Johnson has been appointed to serve at the Martha Bowman Chapel, Macon.

Betty Jane Daniel received her Master's degree this summer from Emory University in Library Science.

Jerry (Griffith) Short wrote in August: "I always enjoy the alumnae magazine so much, but I want to make a correction in the class note in the August issue about me. I live in Atlanta, not Decatur (2685 Boulevard Dr. S.E.), and I have no son named Tommy — in fact no son at all! Our only baby is 16-months-old Cindy, and what a joy she is! How about getting this straight for me before my best friends write me and bless me out for not telling them the good news!"

Betty Faye (Holt) Lawton writes: "On September 6 our informal Wesleyan bridge club had what we hope will become an annual picnic at Wayne (Aiken) Burdell's lake. The married ones all brought their husbands and the single gals, dates. The girls included: Faith Munford, Emily Mallet, Beverly (Folsom) Dyer, Wayne (Aiken) Burdell, Jerrye (Griffith) Short, Charlotte Little, Betty (Mackay) Asbury, Roslyn (Atkinson) Harden, Dot (Stubbs) Hollingsworth, Beverly (Banks) Boland, and Betty Faye (Holt) Lawton. A pleasant addition to our gathering was Marion (Allison) Webb and her husband, Jones, and Sara Stewart, our representative in southern California where she is a Girl Scout Executive. Sara had a month's vacation and was up from Macon to visit Wayne. Everybody had fun and the men made us feel even better by eating everything but the plates and cups!

"Marion told us that as of the last of September, Jones will be out of the army and plans to enter Law School then. They will be living in Lawrenceville, and he will commute from there.

"Kate (Haywood) Robinson and her husband will be in Atlanta for a time while he is at Emory working on his Ph.D. Kate will be near Emmie (Carlton) Johnson, since they will both be living in the Emory Park Apartments. Jean Walker is coming to Atlanta and will share the apartment with Faith Munford and Emily Mallet. Ann Hawkins, '52, was with them this summer, but is getting an apartment with some classmates. Emmie's husband is pastor at Martha Bowman Church this year, and they spent all summer in Macon.

"I have seen Jean (Logan) Russell and her husband at church several times. They have a little boy, you know.

"I've heard that Clara ("Sit") Hillis is quitting her job in New York and coming back to Rochelle to work. Mary Lane Edwards is still in New York, and this year has an apartment with another Macon girl, Linda Lane.

"Betty (Mackay) Asbury's little boy, Logan, and Wayne's boy, Arthur, both can paddle around in the water almost swimming! Logan is 16 months old and Arthur a little over a year. "Cindy," Jerrye (Griffith) Short's little girl, amazed everyone at the picnic with her rendition of 'Rock-a-bye Baby,' in tune, too. She is only 16 months old."

Betsy (Hopkins) Lockridge's husband returned in the summer from his second tour of duty in Korea, and will be stationed in Coronado, Calif., until his release in September, 1953. Betsy is with him.

Marian Lewis, who is teaching at Conservatory, received her Master's in piano this summer and writes that her sister, Mary, A.B. '51, received her Master's this summer in political science from University of Alabama.

Lu Ann (Mooneyham) Jacobs has a little girl about a year old. Her husband is still in school at Emory.

Nell Rodgers had a delightful trip to Europe in the summer with friends who are her classmates at the Institute of Fine Arts in New York, where Nell is working on her Master's degree in history of art.

Betty Strom is now Mrs. W. R. Marlow, and her address is Apt. 113, Armoryville, New Haven, Conn. Betty and her husband both went to India under the A-3 program, and shared many interesting and wonderful experiences there in the work before they returned home to be married.

Billy Toole has received his Master's degree in music from Yale University, and gave a piano recital in July at Wesleyan Conservatory.

Clio Carmichael did graduate work at the University of Florida in the summer.

Katherine Choy, who transferred to Mills College, California, because it would be possible for her to be with a member of her family there, is the new head of the department of ceramics of the Sophie Newcomb Art School. Katherine's work has been exhibited at the Syracuse Museum of Fine Arts and in the Smithsonian Institute in Washington, D. C. After leaving Mills, Katherine spent one year doing original work in ceramics and weaving at Cranbrook Academy, Bloomfield Hills, Michigan.

June Daugherty is doing graduate work at the University of Kentucky.

Betty (Edmonds) Shultz, together with Captain husband and two year old Martha Anne, is now living at Fort Monroe, Virginia, after three years in Germany.

Marty (Haygood) Clark was in bed three weeks during the early fall recovering from an automobile wreck that she and her husband suffered. She writes that she is up and stirring, though, and that the only permanent damage was to the car.

"Midge" Manson writes that we made a mistake when we said in the magazine that she was doing graduate work in music. She is working toward her Master's Degree in elementary education.

Lois Reynolds has had a trip to Europe this summer.

Few (Bigbie) Mixon is at home and is teaching in Ft. Gaines, Ga. Her husband left in September for Korea, after being stationed at Camp Rucker, Ala.

Anne (Compton) Thomas, who served as a Class Fund Agent this year, writes "Hope you're having a good year. I want to see our little Rose Myree before too long."

Rebecca Dodd is now serving as Director of Christian Education at First Methodist Church in Dalton, Ga. She had been doing similar work in Charleston, S. C. Rebecca sent the office news of Evelyn Hamrick, who is now Mrs. Wayne Slaton, of Owensboro, Ky.

Frances (Girardeau) Felner and husband have moved from Memphis to Cincinnati for about a year's duration while he takes a training program at Proctor & Gamble's home office.

Joy (Johnson) Kopp and husband are living in Macon now. He is with the Bibb County Health Department and Joy is connected with WNEX Radio Station.

Sympathy is extended to Billie Jones in the death of her father at his home in Hickory, N. C.

Courtney "Courtie" Knight made an extensive tour this summer of Italy, Switzerland, Austria, Germany, France, England and Scotland, returning home early in October.

Betty Neylans who is going to graduate school at the University of North Carolina tells us when she sends her Loyalty Fund gift that "it is something that I want to be an annual custom."

Nancy (Wyatt) Ezzard has moved from Borger, Texas, to Thomaston, Ga., where her husband is assistant plant engineer of the Martha Mills of B.F. Goodrich Co.

1952

During the summer we tried to find out all we could about the youngest alumnae class, and in August sent out a card to each one, asking about plans for the coming year and addresses. Here are our gleanings:

Liberal Arts College

Jean Armstrong. (See Weddings.)

Betty Banks. (See Weddings.) Her husband has been recently released from duty with U.S.A.F. and will attend the University of Alabama where he will be graduated in January, 1953.

Charlotte Battle spent the summer at the University of Southern California, Los Angeles, where she studied journalism and sculpture. This fall she will do post-graduate work at Columbia, living at International Student House in New York.

Mary Eva (Bryan) DuBose and her husband are living at 3566 Ridge Ave., Macon, and he is working with the Bibb County Welfare Department.

Mary Parks Bugg has been accepted as a short-term missionary to serve the Methodist Board of Missions in the U. S. for two years. She will receive six weeks training at National College for Christian workers, Kansas City, Mo.

Paulina Buhl is working on her Master's in English at University of North Carolina.

Ann Cannon is teaching first grade in Thomaston this year.

Elizabeth (Felder) Whelchel writes that Texas, where her husband is in flight training, is too far from Wesleyan to get back for Home-coming, and that her address is still Cordele.

Delma Findlay writes that her summer in Europe with Mrs. Bosch was wonderful and that she went "simply wild on the subject of Italy."

Jane Gale will be teaching freshman and sophomore English at Washington Seminary, 1640 Peachtree Rd., N.W., Atlanta, this year. She says she is very pleased with the school, and thinks she will be happy there, but she will "miss Wesleyan" too!

Ann Hawkins is really indulging in "monkey business" as research assistant to Dr. H. W. Ades, Emory University anatomy department head. Besides learning by mounting slides, observing experiments as to what part of the brain monkeys use, Ann plans to take some courses at Emory to help her with this research in neuro-anatomy.

Doranne Jennings writes she had a wonderful summer teaching (or playing!) in a children's recreation program. She is now attending University of Florida's Graduate School.

Carolyn King spent a very interesting summer in Washington as a member of the Washington Student Citizenship Seminar, working with 75 other Seminar members in the Census Bureau, but is undecided whether to stay home this winter and work at the radio station or not.

Joan Laslie took graduate work at Peabody College, Nashville, Tennessee, this summer and is now teaching history at Bainbridge High School.

Nancy Lewis began working this summer with an Atlanta law firm as receptionist; however, she writes that her duties are many and varied such as being librarian for their law library, witnessing wills, baby-sitting, etc.

Margaret Lynch is employed by Eastern Air Lines in Atlanta.

Susanne McCowen is now employed with Maier & Berkele Jewelers in Atlanta as bridal consultant, but she writes her head is still swimming from the ground she covered this summer touring Europe with the group headed by Mrs. Gulnar Bosch. She says she is making plans right now to go back sometime.

Jody Mann admits her job as a "Tour-gider" for a large petroleum corporation in Atlanta is "better than a college course in geography." She thought this would cure her wanderlust, but instead has aggravated the malady. (See Weddings and Engagements.)

June Martin writes that she is at home in Thomaston.

Virginia Moore is beginning her long-awaited study at Emory for Master's degree in Religious Education. This summer she worked at Rich's on the College Reserve Board.

Pat Murphy writes she gets that empty feeling when she realizes she won't be coming back to Wesleyan this year; however, she is enjoying her work for the Tennessee Valley Authority as a cartographic engineering aide in the maps and surveys department. Her present address is Hardy Road, Lookout Mountain, Tennessee.

Sarah Roughton began working in August for the T.V.A. as a cartographic engineering aide in the maps and surveys division. Her new address is 426 Sioux Trail, Chattanooga, Tennessee, and she writes she and Brenda Weakley are enjoying living in an apartment together.

Louise Smith enjoyed the fine arts European tour this summer directed by Dr. Bosch, and is now teaching kindergarten at Baker Village Elementary School in Columbus. She is also Vice-President of the Wesleyan Alumnae Club there and has been elected to the Cotillion Club to make her debut this winter.

Vann Snell took a most interesting trip to Cuba this summer and is now teaching social studies in seventh grade at Pearl Stephens School, Macon.

Virginia Switzer received a research scholarship to the Highlands Biological Laboratory. Ordinarily such scholarships go to more advanced students, but the Wesleyan students who have gone to Highlands Laboratory have made such good records that it is not difficult, says Miss Thelma Howell, to have Wesleyan applicants considered.

Peggy (Thoroughman) Callahan. (See Weddings.) Her address is now Dudley,

Georgia, and she writes she is looking forward to "Homecoming."

Jean Tolbert is now employed as an assistant in the Candler Memorial Library at Wesleyan Rivoli campus. This summer she held a similar position at the Conservatory.

Alice Weldon is in the Emory University School of Nursing, but writes she will be back for "Home-coming."

Alice (Williams) Jarnagin. (See Weddings, Aug. issue.) Her husband will be discharged from the army in December and after that they will be back in Georgia.

Fine Arts College

Mary Barber is teaching ceramics at Columbia Museum of Art, Columbia, S. C., and also teaching art in twelve of the county schools.

Winifred Clements. (See Weddings.) Her address will be Birmingham, Alabama, until December 1, at which time her husband will be discharged from U.S.A.F.

Artie Dennis is working on her Master of Music degree at the University of Indiana, Bloomington, Ind., and having had an interview and audition this past June at the University, she was appointed a graduate assistant in piano for this year.

Chris Flake is teaching speech correction at the Junior League Speech School in Atlanta and also teaching at the Children's Rehabilitation Center. She says it is quite thrilling.

Marilyn (Greene) Schneider. (See Weddings.) Her address is now 2605 Broad Ave., N.W., Canton, Ohio.

Vee (Hardy) Huie. (See Weddings, Aug. issue.) Vee writes cooking is lots of fun at her home 2725 Vineville Ave., Macon.

Elise (Hartman) McElrath and baby son, John McDonald McElrath III, sailed in September for Frankfurt, Germany to join Lieutenant McElrath.

Vinita Owens of Calhoun was named Maid of Cotton for the Seventh District in September.

Ruth Paroz writes she attended Columbia Teachers College this summer and will also study there this winter for her Master's degree.

Emeline (Scales) Mashburn. (See Weddings.) Emeline writes that they are at home at 380 6th St. N. E., Atlanta.

Shirley Tillman is now connected with Radio Station WWNS in Statesboro and likes it very much. She writes she hopes to be back for "Home-coming."

1952

Non-Graduates

Joanne (Allgood) Fuller and her husband, Charles Homer Fuller, Jr., Cons. 1950, are now located in Rockmart, Georgia, where they own a music store.

Martha Bielman is now working in Jacksonville and is planning to return to Wesleyan for Home-coming.

Anne Denney was married to Earl Patterson a Federal Junior Bank Examiner, on June 7th. Earl's headquarters are in Atlanta, but they stay in Miami a great deal too. Anne's parents are in Coral Gables.

Frances (Dixon) Bond enjoys her work on a new magazine for intermediate-age Methodist young people, Twelve/Fifteen gotten out by the Methodist Publishing House in Nashville.

Ann Garner received the B.S. degree in nursing from Emory University this summer, and has been affiliating with the North Carolina State Hospital for psychiatric training during the summer months. She plans to work in Atlanta.

In Sook Koh, Korean student, received the M.A. degree from Scarritt at end of this summer and is now at the University of California, Berkeley. Her address is "International House," Berkeley 4, Calif.

Shirley (Kramer) Beason. (See Weddings.)

DeRon (McCurdy) Senna's husband is a second lieutenant in the Army, now in the artillery school at Ft. Bliss. DeRon and her daughter, Sherry, will be with him there until he is transferred to another post.

Betty Jane Percy has a position with the Department of Defense in Washington, D. C.

Dorothy (Smith) Sharp's husband is senior assistant resident physician at Duke University Hospital, having just completed two years of internship at Lawson VA Hospital. They have a young son, David.

Ens. Earl Tidwell writes that he is still on the U.S.S. Iowa based in Japan but expects to be sent back within a few months and is looking forward to putting his feet on United States soil again.

Betty Lou (Barber) McClure's husband (to whom she was married in June by Dr. John Branscomb, Wesleyan trustee and newly elected Bishop) is a magna cum laude graduate of Amherst College, and a member of Phi Beta Kappa. Mary Joe Cawley, Mary Lewis, and Virginia Polk were attendants in the wedding.

Pat (Hammond) Littleton and husband are newcomers to Macon where he is serving as associate pastor of Mulberry Street Methodist Church. Pat continues her studies at Wesleyan as a senior.

An article in a recent issue of the magazine MADMOISELLE on "The United States and Asia" tells of a gathering of sixty girls from various colleges in the United States and abroad to discuss the problems of Asia and our policy toward them. Wesleyan's Felicia Lee was in the group, and she is quoted in the article as saying: "Communism grew out of a long process of revolution, and as a result the Chinese were forced to work out a program that departed from orthodox Marxism in many ways and is not exactly the same as the Russian."

Joanne (Moreland) Morris is teaching second grade at Morningside School in Atlanta.

Mary Martha (Smith) Shearon's husband was transferred from Tundall Air Force Base in Florida to Elmendorf Field, Anchorage, Alaska recently.

1955

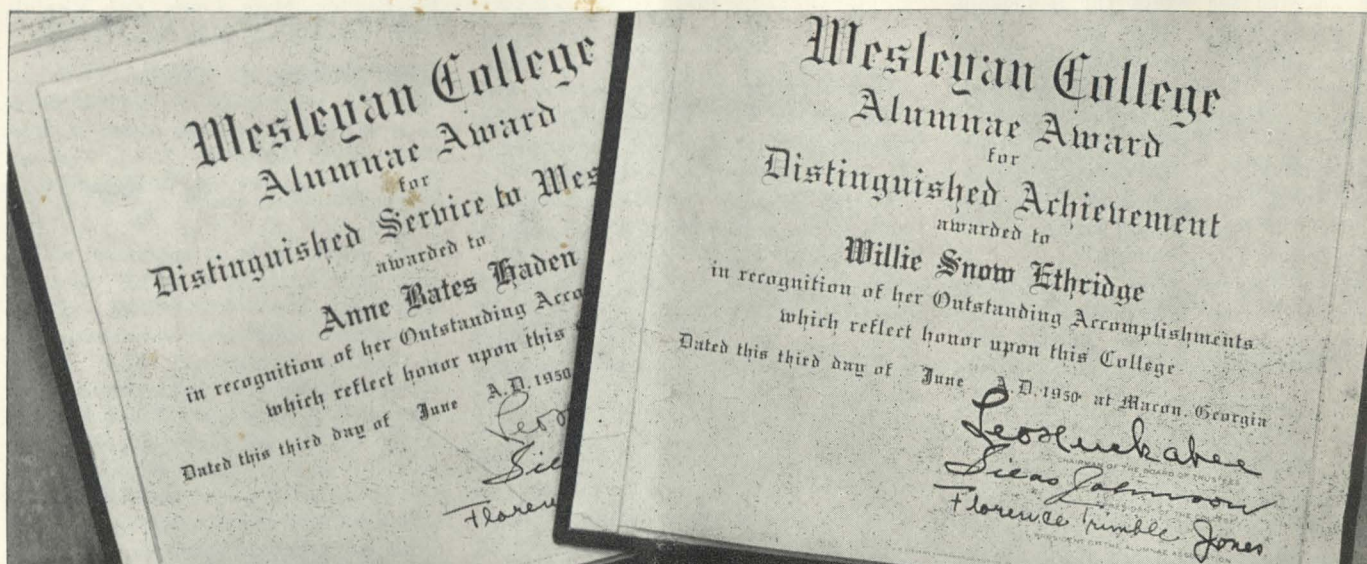

JoAnne Scheel has enlisted in the WAF, and is taking her training at Lackland AFB, San Antonio, Texas.

New Clubs Needed!

Do you have a Wesleyan Alumnae Club in your town? Are you sending in news of its activities? If there is no club, would you be interested in helping to organize one? Wesleyan needs the help that only an organized group can give, so please write the Alumnae Office for help and suggestions if you want to have a club in your home town.

Attention All Alumnae

Please, please keep the Alumnae Office posted as to any change of address. We do not want your Alumnae Magazine or other mail to be returned. You 7,500 Alumnae make a pretty large family to keep up with, but you can make it easy if you always remember to notify us of any change whatsoever. Thanks for your wholehearted support!

THE ALUMNAE AWARDS

will be given for the fourth time at Commencement. You are urged to send in your nominations for these awards. Any Wesleyan Club, any individual alumna or anyone other than an alumna may make a suggestion, through the Alumnae Office, for one or both of these awards. A secret committee will go over all the material and recommend candidates for the awards to the Alumnae Board of Managers.

There are two awards: the one for "Distinguished Achievement" recognizes an alumna's success in some field of endeavor, in a profession, in her community, in her home; the one for "Distinguished Service to Wesleyan" recognizes outstanding service to the college. Only alumnae are eligible, and no alumna may be considered for the award while she holds an official position (on the Board of Managers, on the faculty or staff of the institution, as a national officer).

No definite number of awards shall be given any one year. Last Commencement eight awards were given, four for distinguished service to Wesleyan. The number to be given is to be decided by the Alumnae Board of Managers each year.

Each nomination must be accompanied by a statement from the sender as to why she thinks the alumna deserves the award. Please tell also as much as possible about the nominee, and if all details are not available, tell how they may be secured. The committee on awards promises to give thorough and serious consideration in each case, and to make the awards as fairly as possible.
